

Applied tests that based on DIN Rules and Laws Irrigation systems can be tested and the distribution of the applied water can be monitorized.

The higher the Uniformity of the distributed water the lower is the threat of giving too much or too less water.

This is an important issue for water conservational and sustainable operation

